On Learning

Proverbs 1:1-19

Key Verse: “The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge; fools despise wisdom and instruction.” Proverbs 1:7

Time: 10th – 6th century B.C.

Background: Although the book of Proverbs is generally attributed to King Solomon, son of King David, much of the book was likely written by additional authors, some in the name of Solomon.

The first part of today's reading lifts up some of the purposes of the proverbs, which include to learn, a guide for living with wisdom, peace and justice, and to gain knowledge and fear of the Lord.

The second part of today's reading warns against being seduced by the wisdom of sinners. Their wisdom and desire for evil will, in the end, result in their own destruction.

Community: Whose voices are loudest in your community? Which are voices that entice people to sin? Which voices speak wisdom?

At Home: Whose voices will you listen to this week? Pay attention to the messages you receive from co-workers, family members, media, and news. Discern wisdom from folly and make a decision to follow the words of the wise.

Read This Week:

Monday: Parable of Two Houses, Luke 6:47-49

Tuesday: Warnings against Violence, Proverbs 1:8-19

Wednesday: Warnings against Neglect of Wisdom, Proverbs 1:20-33

Thursday: Reward of Seeking Wisdom, Proverbs 2:1-22

Friday: Wisdom More Precious than Wealth, Proverbs 3:9-20

Saturday: Wise Inherit Honor, Proverbs 3:21-35

Next Week: On Trusting God, Proverbs 1:1-7
